

Sponsor 2020 NYEC Annual Forum

December 7-10, 2020

Recovery · Strategy · Mobilization

As it has for decades, the National Youth Employment Coalition's Annual Forum will bring together practitioners, young leaders, researchers, funders, and policymakers in the fields of workforce development, education, and youth development to discuss emerging practices, problem-solve, and engage policymakers.

In a year like no other, the Annual Forum will also be different. Our aim is to emphasize recovery, healing, strategy, and mobilizing as we look to 2021: how our field and the young people we serve will recover and heal from the COVID-19 pandemic; strategies to ensure that every young person has access to training, education and employment opportunities; and mobilization within and across coalitions to bring together young people and adult allies to change systems.

The Annual Forum will offer:

- Practical discussion and case-conference sessions for leaders and front-line staff, including just-in-time opportunities to share what has worked and what is needed to recover from the COVID-19 pandemic;
- "Action Hours" for young adults to give feedback and input on pending policy decisions, programmatic changes at workforce agencies, and the future of work;
- A focus on ongoing and future efforts to respond to systemic racism, with the input and insights from young adults at the forefront of today's social movements;
- Policy updates and a chance to interact with key federal policymakers.

Who will attend? Attendees at NYEC convenings include:

- Leaders of community-based organizations and training providers
- Workforce development board and other intermediary staff
- U.S. Department of Labor staff
- Young-adult leaders
- Municipal and state agency staff
- Vocational rehabilitation professionals
